

ABSTRACT

A display apparatus is constituted by a displaying portion and an operating portion. The display apparatus also includes a retractable supporting means to support the operating portion, and a rotary mechanism 2500 for rotating the operating portion. The operating portion can be rotated from a non-operating position to a position accessible for use by a user.